

Pamela Holschuh

ASID, NCIDQ #020049, Interior Designer/Principal

Pam, founder and owner, earned her Bachelor's Degree in Interior Design from Ohio University. She is licensed by the National Council of Interior Design Qualification (NCIDQ) and is recognized by the American Society of Interior Designers (ASID) as a professional member. In the past Pam has been an adjunct professor for Ohio University, and serves on the board for the Ohio South/Kentucky chapter of ASID.

Pam began her venture in 1996 and has transformed her business over the years to specialize in highly customized residential and commercial design and project management services. Constantly driven to stay relevant in this ever-changing industry, Pam and her staff are constantly completing continuing education courses and attending conferences and trade shows around the country. Pam's skills in project management have a strong presence in every job completed by Copper Leaf Interiors, as she works closely with clients, architects, builders and her team to bring detail driven designs to life.

Pam also believes in giving back to the community and to her profession by supporting Habitat for Humanity, offering services to the Steven Siller Foundation for wounded veterans, the Boys and Girls club of Washington County, and being a mentor for co-op and internship programs for several colleges.
